

Have you ever thought?

meteors

Tides

earthquakes

volcanoes

WARs

terrorism

migration

starvation

poverty

A close-up, low-angle shot of an adult's hand holding a child's hand against a bright, hazy sunset background. The adult's hand is larger and more weathered, while the child's hand is smaller and smoother. The background is a warm, golden glow from the setting sun, with some lens flare visible. The child's head and shoulder are partially visible on the right side of the frame.

We should protect
next generations.